

Resurrection: The Reversal of Fate

Ryan Morgan

Questions: When you think of the word “ruined”, what is the funniest or most interesting situation you have experienced that best describes it? When have you used it in a more serious situation?

Our biggest problem isn’t morality (How can God make us good?). Our biggest problem is hopelessness (Can God restore our hope?).

Question: When looking at your own life and situation, would you agree or disagree with this statement? Why or why not?

The resurrection of Jesus reverses fate.

Read Luke 24:1-32

Is The Story true? If you have doubts, you are in the company of the Apostles who walked with Jesus in person. This was their “everything is ruined” moment. And Jesus meets them right in the middle of it.

Question: What is your response to think of these “heroes” of the Bible having doubts and Jesus meeting them in their distress, hopelessness and mourning?

Because of the resurrection, nothing is hopeless.

Questions: What in your life is saying “It’s too late now. Nothing can be done.”? How does the resurrection of Jesus shine a different light on it?

If you are looking for more of an intellectual response to the idea of the resurrection, please check out sermon.link/evidence on the internet.

If you are stuck in a place of hopelessness; if you feel like fate is winning and you’re desperate for hope, go to generations.ca/hope for a launching point to a private Facebook group.

Because Jesus lives, everything changes and hope is possible.